

Kelsey Ferrill

I did two things for msad 1 created a "I pledge to wear purple" event page on facebook and I did a newspaper article for moebius syndrome awareness day. . <http://www.facebook.com/#!/event.php?eid=122979221104908> The idea for the event just came to me suddenly one day. I was reading about people having shirts made and I knew that the colour of moebius syndrome was purple so I just thought that everyone should wear purple to commemorate the day and spread awareness. Next I emailed a whole bunch of media outlets here. The reporter emailed me back on Saturday and I went for the interview on Sunday and then the story was online that night and in the paper on Monday <http://www.metronews.ca/calgary/local/article/751888--raredisorder-won-t-stop-20-year-old>

Wearing purple!

700 People pledged to wear purple on Moebius Syndrome Awareness Days. Here is what a few of them had to say!!

Callum Holmes putting my purple socks on now :)

Trisha D Preston Ok, so I have all of our purple shirts ready for tomorrow. I painted them with the Moebius smiley face and the MSAD abbreviation. We also asked everyone at our church to honor those with Moebius by wearing purple tomorrow. They said they would. Our pastor is even coloring his hair purple! How cool is that???

Channan Willner Will be wearing close alternative!
