THE ICONICS INSPIRED BY: WILLIWEAR

In 1976 designer Willi Smith and Laurie Mallet (Ozone Founder) created WilliWear.

The incredibly successful fashion line quickly changed and dominated the world of fashion.

WilliWear introduced the concept of innovative collaborations between artists, designers, and performers.

The brand redefined street wear fashion and invented Street Couture.

This capsule is inspired by the iconic designs of WilliWear

Artwork: Willi and Laurie Go To India.

The father of organic architecture meets The Art of Socks with Ozone's Frank Lloyd Wright Collection. Wright's work has literally built the way we build today, and we're excited to have his influence as the foundation for this collection.

In true Wright tradition, we began with geometric repetitions and added vibrant splashes of color, twisting, turning and contorting the originals into dazzling new sock designs.

This collection truly embodies Wright's philosophy of functional pieces that enhance the environment and the lives of the individuals using them. We hope these socks will do the same, adding comfort, style and geometric sophistication to your wardrobe.

TREE OF LIFE

One of Wright's most famous motifs, this opus of symmetry is found in the Darwin D. Martin house and has been widely influential in art and architecture ever since

SAGUARO

Originally designed as a series of Liberty Magazine covers the Saguaro design was considered too radical and never used. In the 1970's the design was translated into a stained glass window for the entrance of the Arizona Biltmore Resort. The piece entitled "Saguaro Forms and Cactus Flowers" is today one of Wright's most popular designs
