Developed in conjunction with the University of Rhode Island, the newest generation of the best-known name in Fine Fescue is here. King James Chewings Fescue carries the lineage of Jamestown into the future with improved disease resistance, darker color, superior overall turf quality and the ability to tolerate low height of cut.

King James features a level of cultivar stability that you'll notice years after the initial germination. Years of careful polycross tracking and ancestry verification confirms that King James is the ideal variety for golf courses, parks, commercial and residential properties.

King James has shown excellent resistance to both grey and pink snow mold and also has shown resistance toward dollar spot and red thread.
