She will discuss how to change our process and our focus to make decisions that are beneficial rather than detrimental to others. Learn to recognize the difference between a problem in your life and a fact in your life. Practice making Peak to Peak decisions, timing is important. Successful people make the decisions that others can't, don't or won't. Every action has a reaction. We are not free from the consequences of our decisions, so making good ones is a valuable skill to develop. You must decide to act on the important things in life.
