Trojans The next generation

By: Fred W. Wienecke, Sports Writer, Jenks Journal 11/02/2006

Football looks bright, especially in the near future. Coach Todd Williams had trouble singling out a player he thought was the best on the ninth grade team is so good coach Williams simply listed a series of players and their qualities.

"Brown is an intelligent player. He's not big but what lacks in size he more than makes up for in intelligence," said Williams. Brown was observed by four observers during the evening.

"He's in the right place," said coach Williams. That applies to both offense and defense. As the starting safety, Brown was involved in playing a solo tackle in Tuesday night's game against the Sandites. The impact was heard at the top of the stadium. The Trojans were working in his blood. His dad, Scott quarterbacked for the Tulsa Hurricane in the late 70's and early 80's.

"Graves is so intense, if you took those two out of our game we would lose the heart of the team," said Williams. That intensity was evident in the game. Graves' play during the evening was leadership style.

Graves is a running back that does double duty as the place kicker. Only in the ninth grade he gets tremendous distance out of his leg for several years to come.

Graves' participation in the running game was limited but the reports are that his running ability is as good as it gets.

Graves, Cory Jones, number 22 and number 33 Austin Enlow both scored during the Sand Springs game. Both players have returned to play. They are big enough right now to step into any game. Eric Graham, number 70 and Junior Trevino, number 74 are both overweight. Number 77 who was injured during the varsity game against Owasso and the future offensive line looks big enough to move into the game. Football is in his blood. His dad, David played in the NFL and is the offensive line coach for the Trojan varsity team.

David Lore, number 43. David is new to the Jenks program this year. He moved from Medford where eight man football is the main sport. In teams is an issue but he is already playing on both sides of the line.

Lore is a linebacker, tight end and full back. Number 43 is a student of the game, big and eager to play. "Give me a kid that wants to win," said coach Williams.

Lore has a football bloodline. David's dad, Brian was a teammate of coach Trimble's at NSU during the championship days.

In addition to his ability, there are qualities observable on the sideline that indicate these young men will continue the traditions Jenks fosters. Leadership and speech, sportsmanship and affability are typical.

Graves' academic ability was apparent during the game. A serious discussion about homework took place during one break.
