

Lloyd was born in 1945 in Colfax, WA and grew up in Potlatch, Idaho, graduating from Potlatch High School in 1963. After graduation Lloyd entered the U.S. Army, discharged in October 1966. Lloyd attended Lewis Clark State College from 1968 until February 1973.

In April of 1973 Lloyd went to work for Potlatch Corporation in Lewiston, Idaho. He retired from Potlatch in 2007 after working there for nearly 35 years.

While working for Potlatch, Lloyd became involved with the Woodworker's Union:

- He was a shop steward from 1978 to 2007
- He worked his way up the elected board officers to President
- He was on the Departmental and Plant Safety Committees
- He was on the committee for Potlatch's Employee's Community Benefit Fund (Potlatch's part of United Way)
- He currently is the President of the Retiree's Club

Lloyd's other community involvement includes:

- Board member for New Hope Services (Food Bank in Asotin County, WA)
- Board member for Asotin County Housing Authority
- Board member and volunteer for The Valley Community Center in Clarkston, WA

Lloyd and his wife Carylon have been married since 2002 and have three children
