

Marty Blocker

Working for various ranches and with large crews, currently managing an operation west of Cody Nebraska, Marty plies his trade as a working cowboy. The Sandhills and High Plains region have given him ample subject matter and authenticity for his poems and stories.

Marty has won numerous awards throughout the years and has been privileged to be included in Cowboy Poetry Gatherings & shows all across the West River hinterlands. From national gatherings to local get-together's, Marty has performed for crowds of all ages and hopes that he might inspire the young people to continue on with this life style.

If it's on stage, sitting around a campfire burning some Folgers or riding out with a cowboy crew on a cool Fall morning, Marty's love for the traditional western way of life will take your right there to the world of a contemporary cowboy!
