

Equine Guided Learning Program

Building bridges for culturally safe and productive professional communications

About The Bridging Principles™ Equine Guided Learning Program

The Bridging Principles™ are a set of proven communication strategies that build bridges for culturally safe and successful relationships between individuals, businesses, and government agencies in any cultural context. Our Equine Guided Learning program is an on the ground experiential opportunity to learn and practice these principles with the help of horses.

The Bridging Principles™ are about building safe, productive, sustainable relationships that are beneficial for all involved. Horses live by these Principles intuitively. Horses enact these Principles with each other in order to thrive as a herd every day. As a result, horses are the perfect teachers for how to communicate across cultures; just like humans, they have their own culture, their own language, and each horse has their own distinct personality.

Through our Equine Guided Learning program, practicing The Bridging Principles™ in real-time with a horse partner will provide immediate, honest feedback on your approach and where there is need for improvement. This is an interspecies experience working with the horse herd culture in a safe and supportive environment.

Learning The Bridging Principles™ with horses will transform your relationships with humans from all walks of life. No horse experience required.
