Contemporary art as defined by Wikipedia: is art produced at the present period in time. Contemporary art includes, and develops from, Postmodern art, which is itself a successor to Modern art.[1] In vernacular English, "modern" and "contemporary" are synonyms, resulting in some conflation of the terms "modern art" and "contemporary art" by non-specialists.

This is what we define "Contemporary Art" as, but how did the American Contemporary Ceramic artist develop and what informed this movement of broader based ceramic art? People like Pete Volkous,

Paul Soldner, Robert Arneson carved the path for most contemporary ceramic artist and set us on the path of the esthetics we see today.

This lecture will cover Ceramic Art history after the 1950's and look at examples of the birth of modern movement of Ceramics in America and the breaking of tradition.
