Subject: Dilemma: Pay the Cable Bill or Eat This Month?

Hey FIRST NAME, we're the NeoTube team and we're wondering...do you get sticker shock every month when you open your cable bill? Think for a minute...

Your eyes jump to the balance due, dart out of your head and then you start frantically figuring out what isn't getting paid that month because giving up cable TV isn't an option. (And I don't blame you)

Panic sets in as the adult in you declares you must give up your costly habit for the necessities in life. Usually, it's the grocery budget that suffers. The last week of the month drags by on oatmeal and bologna. Ugh!

When did watching TV become as costly as a car payment?

The greedy child in you, you know, the one who likes to check out of reality and watch some action, drama, comedy, anime, or whatever, stomps his foot in turn to remind you that cable TV is your reward for being a responsible adult (most of the time).

Why should you give up the one and only reward you can count on every single day of your life? Why? Because it's a car payment? Or the monthly grocery budget? Because your significant other says it's gotta go perhaps?

What if I told you every movie, television show, documentary, news broadcast, shopping channel, sports, pay-per-view, premium channel and much more could be yours for a shockingly low ONE-TIME PAYMENT. Well, it's true.

Subject: Cable TV got you BROKE and Super ANNOYED?

Hi from the NeoTube team. We dealt with how finding something to watch on TV costs as much as a car payment in our last message. Now let's get real about how "entertaining" your entertainment really is...

Studies have shown that TV viewing is not just a brain drainer. It can also be educational, informational, instructional, motivational...you can travel vicariously and help people to feel less lonely. Although most of us are watching just to tune out the events of the day.

Just for giggles and grins let's assume you pay $250 a month for a cable subscription service which is an average car payment for working joes. Now for that amount of money, wouldn't you expect....

- ✓ Every channel currently broadcasting
- ✓ Media you want, when you want it
- ✓ All live streaming
- ✓ Fully-trained customer service staff

Are you kidding? Who wouldn't? I would!

How about the stuff you don't want....

- ✓ Commercials

- ✓ Monthly cable bill
- ✓ Pay-per-view
- ✓ Waiting for start times
- ✓ Premium packages
- ✓ Missing channels you wish you could afford
- ✓ Wasted time searching for something to watch that doesn't cost you even more (your time is money)
- ✓ Finding a movie you want to watch, but it's half over already

Guess what? NeoTube hates all the same things. Don't you want your money's worth? We did!

Subject: I'm going to zip my lips now...

Hey FIRSTNAME, it's the team at NeoTube and did we ever blunder. We've been so busy sharing the news of our wonderful new product that we forgot one of the basic rules of salesmanship:

"Don't tell..let others tell FOR you!"

What we should have done is quiet down long enough for some of customers and reviewers to do the talking.

Because nobody (including you) is going to trust a new company without feedback from others.

Insert testimonials

And that's just a few. There's tons more emails and letters from people who are taking advantage of the NeoTube special offer and taking the first step toward a cost-free and frustration-free TV viewing experience.
