

Good People of Wolfeboro,

I truly wish I could be seated before you tonight but I'm traveling abroad with my wife on a previously scheduled trip. My name is Kevin Duffy and I'm running for a position on the Wolfeboro Police Commission. I am a candidate because I want what every other good citizen in this community wants,

A professional, transparent police organization that fairly and impartially enforces New Hampshire state law and Wolfeboro town ordinances.

I'm uniquely qualified for this position partly because of my professional law enforcement experience, which included holding every rank at New Hampshire State Police, Troop E in Tamworth. In the short time that I've been on the Police Commission, I've recognized that it helps to have law enforcement experience. Still, it's important to have executive law enforcement experience because of the nature of the matters the commission deals with. My experience as a Troop Commander and the experience I gained at the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Virginia, has already been a benefit to this community.

Experience is only half of the equation for success as a police commissioner in my opinion. The other half is dedication, but not just saying you're dedicated. Dedication through selfless service may be the difference between my competitors and me. I have raised my right hand twice in two different professions and swore to uphold the values rooted in the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of New Hampshire. My selfless service to this country as a United States Army Officer set my professional work foundation on solid ground. That foundation grew into a 23-year career with the New Hampshire State Police.

I am bringing dedicated, selfless service to this community by running for the Wolfeboro Police Commission. If you are looking for a candidate who will ensure your police department is professional, and transparent, and holds every police employee accountable to the law enforcement mission and the Town of Wolfeboro, please consider voting for me. If you are interested in taking advantage of my experience and selfless service to this community, please consider voting for me. If you want what every good citizen in the community wants in their police department, please consider voting for Kevin Duffy, Wolfeboro Police Commission, on March 12th.

Thank you,
Kevin
