Support Protestant Campus Ministry

The Protestant Campus Ministry (PCM) at Stony Brook University provides quality spiritual support and programs for adults during critical years. Our on-campus Christian chaplaincy offers a safe environment where students from diverse backgrounds can come together to honestly question, grow and live out their faith. PCM extends a warm welcome to college students, and travels with them through all the twists, turns and detours of their spiritual journeys. Throughout the academic year, the chaplain's office at Protestant Campus Ministry sponsors groups and leads activities focused on spiritual health.

Current offerings include:

One-on-one conversations with Chaplain

Our chaplain is available for individual consultation or pastoral counseling Wednesday and Thursday. Email Reverend Ford for an appointment to talk about what's on your mind. She is comfortable working with students, faculty or staff on issues that touch at the heart of what it means to be human such as:

- The quest to live a meaningful life
- Spirituality or religion as a resource for living well
- Relationship issues
- Stress reduction techniques (meditation, guided imagery, etc.)
- Art and Tea for the Soul & much more...

Guided Meditation

Meditation is a practice that allows you to take some time to breathe deeply, relax and renew. Guided meditation adds the dimension of having someone lead us in the relaxation process, often inviting us to go on an imaginative journey with the intention of letting go of stress. It is not specific to any particular spiritual tradition, although many religions have discovered and made use of its benefits. Come and practice with us!

Spiritual Life Committee

PCM's Spiritual Life Committee coordinates a variety of religious and spiritual programs and activities on campus and beyond, including outreach to local congregations and service opportunities nearby.

Christian Fellowship

This group meets for tea twice a month in Starbucks and or Wang Center. They also gather weekly for Bible Study, often enjoying small meal together and a time of informal connection.

Seniors with Animals Project (SWAP): We strongly encourage the relationship between senior citizens and their animals. This relationship is proven to be positive on both the physical and mental health of a senior citizen. Oftentimes, an animal is all the senior has for companionship; the reason why the senior gets out bed every day. Reality is, many times, the senior cannot take care of their companion. Our goal in the SWAP program is to maintain and support the senior and companion animal bond. Our programs as follows:

- Animal Care Outreach: We provide animal care for seniors in the community or a group living environment (nursing home, assisted living facility, etc.). Animal care such as walking, feeding, litter box cleaning, transport to vet; animal placement; training; respite care, whatever assistance is needed in order to maintain and promote this vital relationship.
- Food Pantries Outreach: We have contacted Long Island food pantries, food shelves, senior centers, etc., places where seniors go to pick up food, and have requested each organization to stock animal food on their shelf. We also are contacting church's, synagogue's, food shelves, etc.-places where people are requested to donate food and we are asking each host to include within their request, dog/cat food so when people are buying food to donate, food for the dog/cat is included.
- Pet Therapy Program: We have finished our second pet therapy program where we train volunteers with their animals to be certified pet therapy animals so we can continue home visits to those seniors who reside in the community as there is a much wanted need with these seniors as well as bringing our animals into nursing homes, assisted living homes, group homes, veterans homes and senior centers.
- Senior Animal Placement Program: We place those senior animals who are in need of a new home due to the death or disability of their guardian. Many times, as we all are aware, the guardian may need an aide to assist but the aide does not "like" animals, or the Senior must move out of their home into a facility or with their children or due to death of the Senior. There are so many reasons why a senior citizen must give up their animal; many times, it is not their decision but someone makes it for them. Whatever it is, these animals usually will be sent to a shelter where their fate tends to be euthanasia because senior animals are not deemed adoptable. We are working to place these senior animals with senior citizens. We provide a life time commitment to these animals.
- Animeals: We are working with those seniors who require assistance with their pet food needs including home deliveries of food itself and also providing pet food on trays of home delivered meals
- Respite Care: We provide pet sitting for those seniors who require short term pet sitting needs due to hospitalization, rehabilitation, etc.
