Certificate in Treating Human Trafficking Survivors

Human Trafficking has been a crime that has plagued our world for uncountable years. The lives of its victims are undoubtedly impacted in many negative ways, not just physically, but also psychologically.

Human Trafficking survivors are in need of highly trained mental health professionals in order to help them move forward and create healthy lifestyles after such trauma.

Our school is now providing a Certificate in Treating Human Trafficking Survivors, that will train mental health professionals in research and Evidenced Based approaches to treat this population.
