

After 73 Years, Henry's Restaurant is No More

By Ralph McKinch

ThumbPrint News Staff Writer

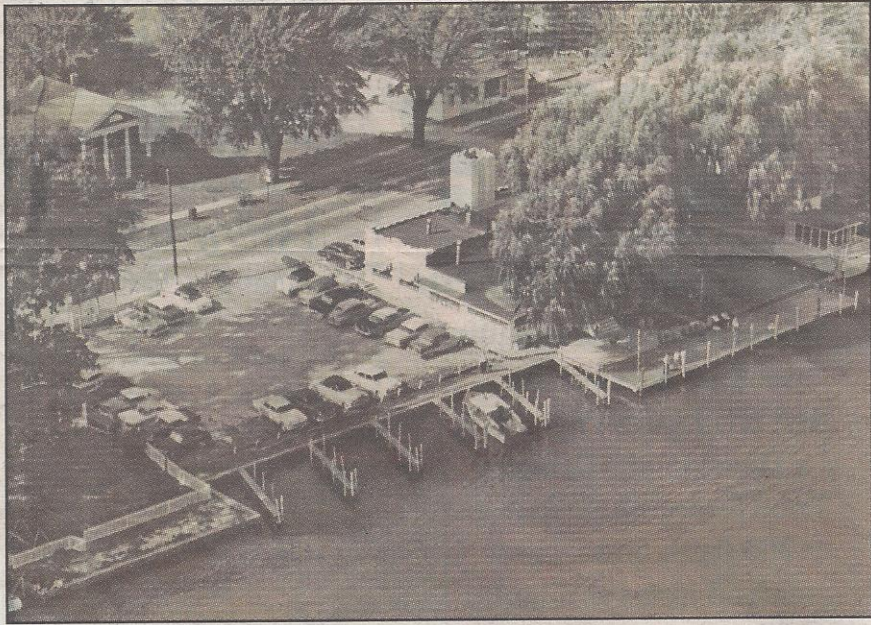

The famed building that once was Henry's Restaurant in Algonac was torn down after 73 years this past November to make room for a parking lot and mooring location for the Russell Island Ferry. Let's take a look back in time.

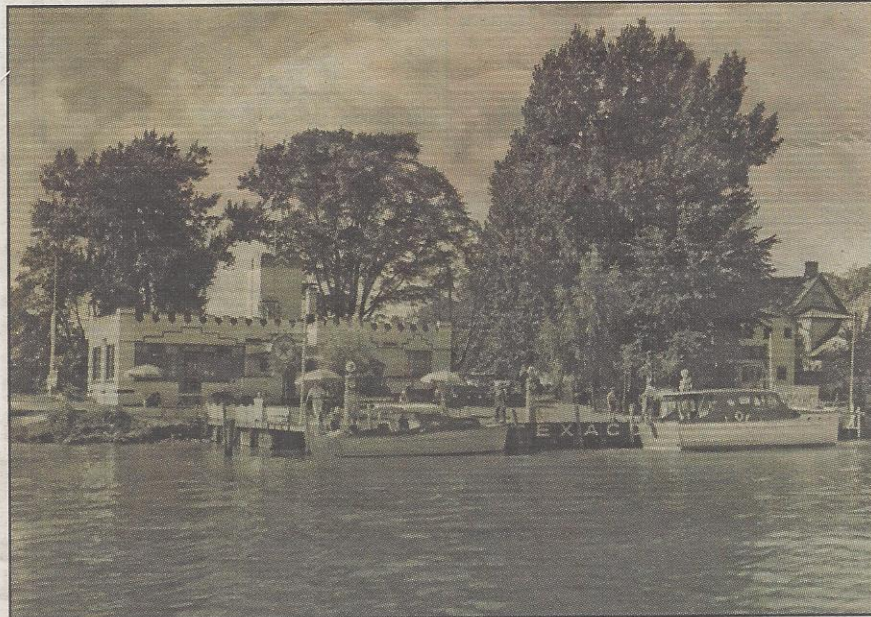

The site of the former Henry's Restaurant, November 2010

The boarded up Henry's Restaurant in early 2010

Henry's Restaurant circa 1956

Texaco gas station on the property that would become Henry's (sometime prior to 1937).