

cardamom
FRESH INDIAN

weekday lunch

Welcome.

Cardamom seeks to bring together East and West, old and new, familiar and unfamiliar, through food, culture and relationships. I chose the name “Cardamom” for my restaurant because cardamom is an important native Indian spice. Known as “the queen of spices”—second only to the “king,” black pepper—it is one of the most expensive spices in the world by weight (topped only by saffron and vanilla). Cardamom is used in a wide range of Indian foods and nearly all food from our kitchen—both savory and sweet. It’s an essential ingredient in garam masala, which is a basic spice mix that forms the foundation of many Indian dishes. It is used together with cinnamon and cloves in chai (spiced tea), and often used alone in desserts. So, cardamom, while quite precious, is both common and versatile.

Cardamom seeks to explore what Indian food and culture have done for centuries—take the best from outside influences and create something new, but distinctly Indian. Indian cuisine has been influenced over the centuries by a host of cultures—the Persians in the north, the Chinese in the east, the Portuguese, the British. Indian chefs and home cooks have a long history of taking outside flavors and cooking techniques, and combining them with their native spices. India is a vast country and very diverse. We designed our menu to reflect this diversity, and then to take it a step further by adding our own Western-influenced dishes.

Why Fresh Indian?

fresh ingredients—like locally grown produce, freshly roasted & ground spices fresh cooking—our chefs are cooking your food to order—really!
more fresh produce on your plate—from fresh green salads to fresh-squeezed juice
fresh new dishes—East-meets-West creations

Please enjoy this journey with me,

Rinod

 Atithi devo bhava
A guest is equal to god.

About allergies & special diets

Our son Ravi has a host of life-threatening food allergies, including dairy, egg and tree nuts, so we know about the importance of special diets firsthand. We do use all major food allergens in our kitchen—nuts, peanuts, fish, shellfish, eggs, dairy, wheat, soy—but we have chosen to cook with pure vegetable oil and not add dairy to dishes that can be made without. Therefore, we offer a wide selection of vegan items, and many of our meat dishes are actually dairy-free. India has a long tradition of vegetarianism, and these items are fully delicious!

We cannot guarantee that any dish is completely allergen-free. Please speak to your server if you have special restrictions. We provide the following keys for your reference.

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|--|
| • = vegetarian | ▲ = contains nuts/peanuts (coconut is not included in this label) |
| • = vegan | ■ = contains gluten
(note, if you do NOT see a red square, it's no-gluten!) |
| (•) = can be made vegan, please ask | (■) = can be made no-gluten, please ask |

80% of our menu items are made without gluten in their traditional preparation, so we code only the items that do have gluten. Everything on the menu without a code is no-gluten except for trace amounts, since we do use wheat flour in our kitchen.

the tandoor oven

The tandoor is a clay oven used in India as well as in central and west Asia. The heat was traditionally generated by a wood or charcoal fire inside the clay oven, while the modern restaurant tandoor is now heated with gas. The gas heats both the clay pot and stones at the bottom, thus exposing the food to radiant heat, convection cooking, and smoking. Foods are marinated, placed on a skewer and lowered into the tandoor. Because the tandoor bakes and grills at the same time, tender and flavorful dishes result.

11

If you've never had a thali, you should, because this is the way that Indians eat! The eating philosophy dictates that a complete meal encompasses all five tastes: sour, bitter, sweet, salty and pungent/spicy. Thali literally means “plate” in Hindi and Nepali and refers to a selection of various dishes and condiments which together form a complete meal. Thalis vary from region to region in South Asia, and are usually served in small bowls called katori, which are placed on a round tray, the actual thali. We offer a different selection each day—ask your server.

CHOCOLATE COCONUT CAKE

Not Indian at all, but very good! Made locally.

Dark chocolate cake, layered with coconut-white chocolate ganache, toasted coconut flakes.

Most of the Indian populace were not tea drinkers prior to British colonization. When Indians did take on the British custom of tea drinking, they made it distinctly their own by adding spices and plenty of milk and sugar. Forget what you've had at the coffee houses. Ours is what chai should taste like (although every family makes their own version). We roast and grind our own chai masala (spice mix), then combine it with India's ubiquitous "Red Label" brand tea and milk.

VALENTIN BIANCHI MALBEC | Argentina - 23
From this third-generation, family-owned Argentine winery, founded by an Italian, comes the perfect expression of the highly-praised Malbec grape Ripe plums, cherries, hints of vanilla and coffee. Massive, silky, mouthfeel. Long finish.

wine and Indian food

Finding a wine to stand up to the aggressive flavors of Indian food can be tricky, but we are up to the task! Because all our dishes, regardless of heat level, feature a blend of spices, the traditional meat/wine pairings are not relevant. Most sommeliers will agree, best for Indian foods are sparkling wines and crisp dry or aromatic whites. If you prefer red, stick to a fruity red and avoid high-tannic reds that will fight with the spices. Knowing that most parties will share multiple dishes at the table, we have tasted dozens upon dozens of wines with our foods and selected only those that will pair nicely with a wide range of dishes. You won't see high-tannic reds and oaky chardonnays here, but we hope you'll travel through the menu and try a wine you might not normally order—you might be surprised! We feel confident that you'll find every wine we've listed an excellent complement to our food.
