

Holiday Greetings from the Iorillo's!

What a start to the new millennium 2000 has been! We replaced our annual trip to Colorado with two weeks in beautiful Kauai to celebrate our five-year wedding anniversary. We had such a great time! We lounged on the beaches, pampered ourselves at the spa, took an island tour via helicopter, saw a traditional luau, shopped, and ate very, VERY well! We took many pictures and bought some really great souvenirs to remember our trip by, but it would be difficult to forget!

With the privilege of some time off this year, we established a personal web page (www.iorillo.bigstep.com) where you can visit us and view recent pictures. We also obtained a distributor license for natural health supplements and household products that we have used for years. Now, as something fun to do in our spare time, we can provide them to you through HiJiHealth. For a brief period, we even took Spanish lessons, but had to cut them short when our schedules began filling up. We hope to resume sometime in the near future, though!

John spent the first half of the year working on a new technology venture with previous cohorts from Osage and recently accepted the Chief Financial Officer (CFO) position at Intellimet (www.intellimet.com), a start-up technology company in Scottsdale. In layman's terms, they perform virtual compliance assessments for various manufacturing standards to primarily Fortune 500 companies and their suppliers. A very fast-paced and challenging environment right now, which keeps him busy, as usual! John has also resurrected his bowling ball in a league this year after a four year rest - still not up to Cleveland par yet, but working on it!

Heather embarked on a long-time desire to obtain her MBA by enrolling at the University of Phoenix; estimated completion date . . . 2002! She is spending the rest of her time doing financial consulting work for a start-up technology company called IntelliCommunities (www.intellicommunities.com) with a tentative agreement to accept a permanent position as their CFO in the first quarter of 2001, pending successful funding. In brief, the Company provides technology, infrastructure, and application services to the residential and commercial real estate industry. It has been great fun so far, so hopefully all goes well into the New Year!

Well, that is our year in review! We hope this finds you in good health, that 2000 brought with it many joys and achievements, and that you, too, have many things to be thankful for this holiday season. Happy Holidays!

Love,

John,

Heather,

and Mary
