TITLE X FAMILY PLANNING FUNDS

WASHINGTON (CNS, Catholic News Service) — The Biden administration's decision to allow Title X family planning funds go to health facilities that perform and promote abortion "is offensive to tens of millions of Americans," said Carol Tobias the president of National Right to Life. "The vast majority of Americans believe that using taxpayer funds to pay for abortion is wrong," Her comments came in a statement released late Oct. 4 in response to the Biden administration's announcement that it had officially reversed the Trump-era "Protect Life Rule" enforcing Title X's ban on taxpayer funds from being used to promote or provide elective abortions.

Title X, enacted by the Family Planning Services and Population Research Act of 1970, covers reproductive health care services for low-income patients such as wellness exams, cervical and breast cancer screenings, contraceptives, and testing and treatment for sexually transmitted infections.

Section 1008 of the law states that "none of the funds appropriated under this title shall be used in programs where abortion is a method of family planning."

In February 2019, the Trump administration implemented its rule to enforce Section 1008, and the rule was upheld by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Feb. 24, 2020.

On Jan. 28, eight days after he was inaugurated, President Joe Biden announced he would rescind the Trump-era rule.

Biden, a Catholic who supports legal abortion, said the "Protect Life Rule" placed "onerous requirements on abortion providers."
