

Emergency Plan

This emergency plan is not designed to deal with all emergencies but is presented as a blueprint, which an RSO can use to help respond to, and deal with emergency situations. In any emergency it is imperative that the RSO take charge and perform those actions that will enhance the response of emergency responders, i.e. fire and or medical crews.

1. Assess the situation
2. Determine appropriate actions
3. Direct others in the area to perform specific actions
4. Call Emergency Services (911) via mobile phone or phone handset in rangehouse.

Scenario #1 - Medical Emergency.

-Direct cease-fire

-Direct one person to call 911 and stay on the phone. (The Club's address is 90 Furnace Rd., Johnson City, TN)

-Assess the medical situation or determine if anyone present is more capable to assess the situation and render First Aid.

-Direct one person to go to the main gate to direct fire and medical personnel to the scene.

-Direct one person to go outside the covered firing line to direct fire and medical personell to the scene.

-Direct one person to take notes of what occurs.

-Write out an incident report as soon as EMS has the situation under control.

Contact the CRSO, club president, vice-president and inform them of the incident.

Scenarion #2 - Fire.

-Direct cease-fire

-Direct one person to call 911 and stay on the phone. (The Club's address is 90 Furnace Rd., Johnson City, TN)

Direct personnel to fight the fire.

Remove cartridges and powder from the area of the fire.

-Direct one person to go outside the covered firing line to direct fire and medical personell to the scene.

-Write out an incident report as soon as EMS has the situation under control.

Contact the CRSO, club president, vice-president and inform them of the incident.

Scenarion #3 - Serious Rule Violators.

Remember to always be polite and friendly when dealing with rule violations. Most people are well intentioned but dangerous behavior must be stopped when it is observed. A kind word and respectful manner usually will rectify most situations. As an RSO, your role is that of a diplomat and educator.

-Direct a cease-fire if appropriate to the situation

-Explain the violation to the member or guest

-If the member or guest corrects their behavior, no further steps are required.

-If the member or guest willfully continues in the violation or becomes uncooperative or aggressive, ask the member to leave the range.
