Navy Leaguers toured the Udvar-Hazy Center at Dulles Airport, an extension of the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum. Thousands of aviation and space artifacts are displayed including a SR-71 Blackbird, a Concorde, the B-29 Enola Gay, and the Space Shuttle Discovery. The Center also offers an IMAX Theater, a glassed-in view of restoration projects underway, and a 360-degree observation tower overlooking the active runways.

As usual, your Navy League trip including bus, driver, tip, and snacks and drinks for the return trip. This is much nicer than fighting the DC traffic in your own car. Let James River Transportation and the Navy League do the dirty work for you. Oh, and by the way, there are nice people on the bus with you, at least the half that were awake on the way back!

Below: The Museum also includes the Navy's most beautiful modern plane, the F-14D Tomcat.
