Hiking can sure work up an appetite. This particular trail in southeastern Louisiana not only has some incredible views and will take you on an epic journey, but there are several places to stop off and grab a bite to eat along the way. Let's take a closer look.

The Tammany Trace is an incredible rail-to-trail hike and bike trail that runs through five different towns in St. Tammany Parish.

The 31 mile trail runs through Covington, Mandeville, Abita Springs, Slidell, and Lacombe.

Each town has its own trailhead with unique attractions perfect for you to stop off and do some exploring.

The Abita Brew Pub is right next to the Abita Springs Trailhead, making it a great place to stop and grab a bite to eat, and maybe an ice cold beer.

Casual and comfortable, the Abita Brew Pub was where Abita beers were brewed and bottled.

They outgrew their space in 1994 and moved to a larger location down the road. Luckily, this opened up the doors for a delicious restaurant.

From burgers to hot wings, there's something on the menu for everyone.

Their burgers are legendary, and feature several different types on their menu.

If you're in the mood for seafood, you've come to the right place.

Not only do they offer amazing seafood platters, but their catfish, shrimp, and oyster po'boys are mouthwateringly good.

And of course, you should take a look at their beer menu.

Get a sampler so you can taste a few different brews. From seasonal to flagship beers, you'll find a huge range in the flavor of their brews.

You can find the Abita Brew Pub at 72011 Holly St, Abita Springs, Louisiana 70420.
