

WITHERNSEA : Earlier defensive wooden groynes designed to slow down the north to south longshore drift of beach material. Now broken and in disrepair; and superseded by the more modern, more permanent, more resistant and more effective stone defences.

