Luffarslöjd: Scandinavian Wirework Faith Clover

Mountain Iron, MN, April 1, 2019 _ The Arrowhead Library System is pleased to present Luffarslöjd: Scandinavian Wirework with Faith Clover, a free, 90-minute program being offered for ages 14 and older at the following dates and locations:

Thursday, May 9, 6:00 p.m.
Two Harbors Public Library

Thursday, May 23, 6:00 p.m.
Silver Bay Public Library

Friday, May 24, 10:30 a.m.
Grand Marais Public Library

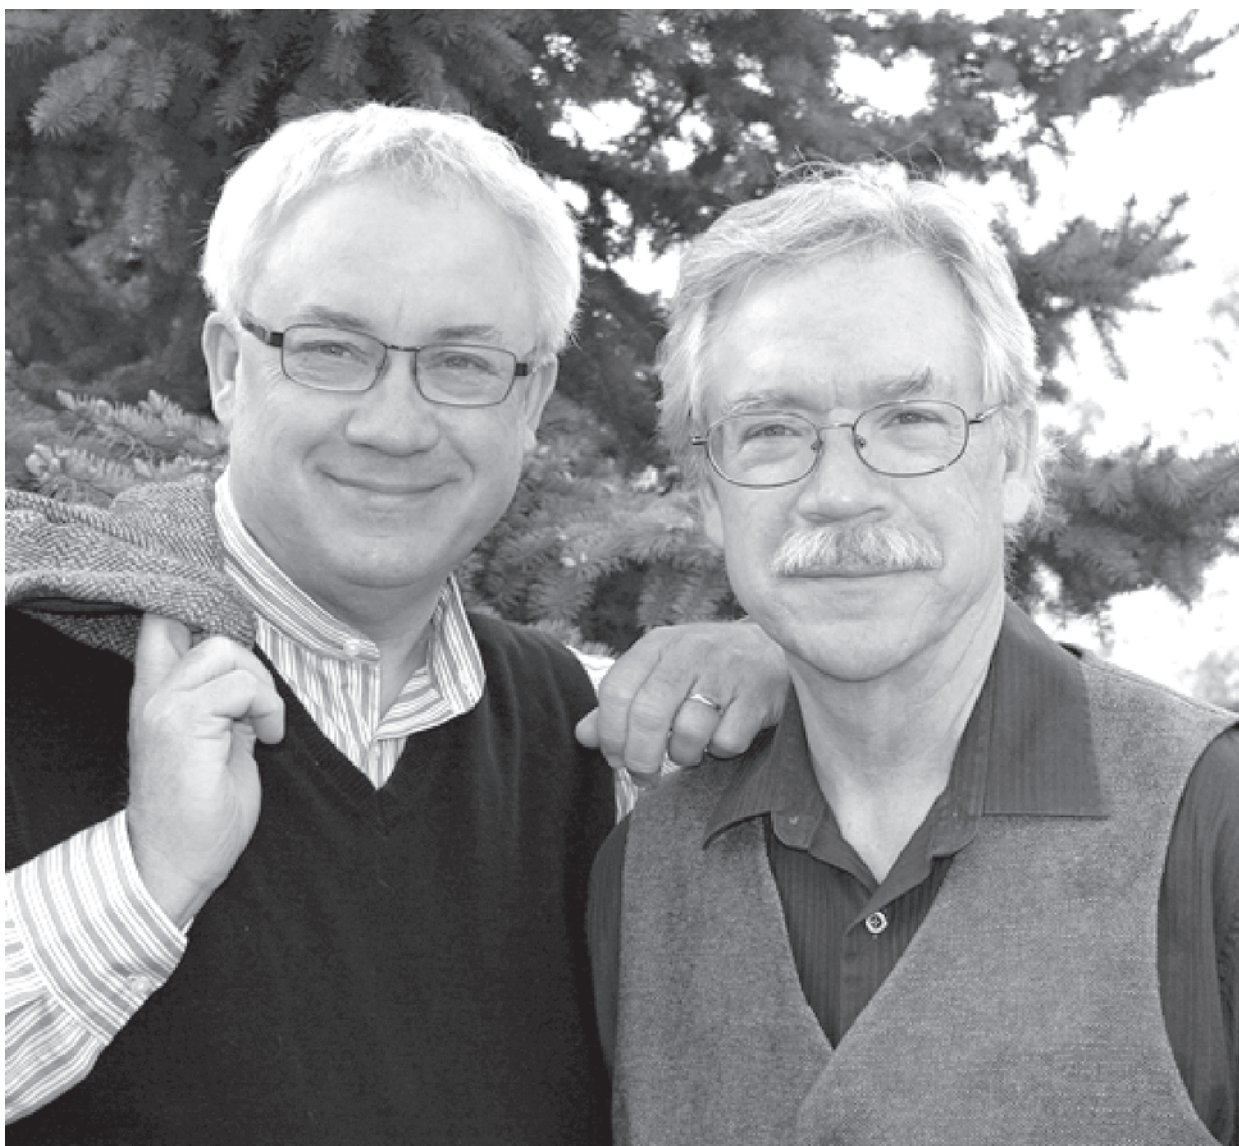

Luffarslöjd is part of the tradition of making beautiful and useful objects for everyday use, using one's hands and simple tools. Farmers used wires to mend fences and make basic tools around the farm. Leftover bits of wire were then used to make household items like whisks, cake tickles, trivets, or egg holders. More decorative items like candleholders, baskets, and hanging birds and other decorations were also commonly made. The design of wire items is really limited only by one's imagination.

After a talk and exhibit of luffarslöjd items, each person will make a basic hook or two to take home. All tools and materials will be provided. Max participant number preference is 40 attendees. Please check with your local library to see if there is a sign-up sheet for this event.

Born and raised in Minnesota, Faith has always been a crafter of eclectic interests. After 27 years of living and teaching in Oregon and Arizona, she returned to Minnesota in 2000 to teach art education at the University of Minnesota. As the granddaughter of Swedish immigrants, she has immersed herself in all things Swedish, worked with educational programs at the American Swedish Institute, researched the history of Swedish home crafts, and personally practices several crafts including figure carving, birch bark weaving, and spoon carving. Study abroad trips with her students introduced Faith to luffarslöjd, and she has taken classes at Sätergläntan, the national folk craft school in Dalarna, Sweden, to learn more about this relatively unknown craft. She is eager to share luffarslöjd with others!

Sons and Daughters of the Northern Lights

Ross and Bart Sutter have performed together more than 30 years. See them at 2:00 PM on May 7 at the Grand Marais Public Library.

Grand Marais Public Library is pleased to present Sons and Daughters of the Northern Lights with The Sutter Brothers, a free 50-minute program being offered for adults at the library on Tuesday, May 7, at 2 PM.

The program features music and stories, poetry and song that explores the experience of Scandinavian immigrants, their ancestors, and their descendants. For more than thirty years, The Sutter Brothers have performed shows that integrate Bart's original writing with Ross' versions of traditional Scandinavian and American songs and tunes. "Sons and Daughters of the Northern Lights" will offer glimpses of early settlers, memories of a vanished village school, a lament for ghost towns, and celebrations of colorful farm folk and fishermen. The show will be specially designed to evoke memories and provoke curiosity about regional history, ethnic culture, and the presence of the past in our contemporary lives.

Who are The Sutter Brothers?

Ross plays guitar, button accordion, mountain dulcimer, and Irish drum but is best known for his rich baritone voice. The winner of three grants from the Minnesota State Arts Board, he has performed for A Prairie Home Companion and the Winnipeg Folk Festival, among hundreds of other venues. He has also won the prestigious Sally Award for his work in arts education.

The author of nine books, Bart is the only author to win the Minnesota Book Award in three different categories—poetry, fiction, and creative nonfiction. He has also written for public radio and has had four plays produced. Winner of the George Morrison Artist Award for his contribution to the arts in northeastern Minnesota, Bart was named the first Poet Laureate of Duluth in 2008.

Though Ross and Bart have established separate reputations as a musician and a writer, they take special pleasure in performing as a pair. They have done well over 100 shows together, and in 2014 won an Arts Tour Minnesota grant to take one of their programs statewide. The pair has performed as far afield as Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and Lindsborg, Kansas, and, in 2015, went international with a tour in Sweden. Both brothers are featured in the series Pretty Much 100% Scandinavian by the Swedish film company Camera Q. Their program "Sons and Daughters of the Northern Lights" was inspired by Bart's new book, Nordic Accordion: Poems in a Scandinavian Mood.
