

Most Native communities are geographically remote and must cope with high levels of unemployment and social distress. Native People have a proud heritage of self-sufficiency, and seek to regain control over their lives and futures. Native people need access to the internet for educational and telemedicine opportunities, e mail, and web based business opportunities.

About Us

NativeOne is a certified SDB (Small Disadvantaged Business) and develops commercial sized projects on Native lands and US government facilities. Utilizing Native lands and government facilities to develop telecommunications products brings not only jobs, but careers and prosperity to Indian Country. Through Strategic Partnering with Tribes and Alaskan Native Corporations, NativeOne is in a unique position to secure telecommunications development projects for lesser served rural areas.

Native and Rural Community Benefits

Provide access to telemedicine, Distance Learning, Video Conferencing, Remote Storage, data centers, telecommuting, Internet Business, Electronic Government services and general Internet connectivity.

Native Americans will build businesses, work remotely, and start and grow new tribal businesses.

Provide new communications jobs for native people contribute to economic development, healthcare and deliver a new source of revenue to the tribes.

Strategic Partners

NativeOne is currently seeking Tribal Nations to partner with for economic development in the Telecommunications Industry. Our strategic partnerships have set a template to entering new business areas with ease and safety. The telecommunications partner brings knowledge and expertise along with a strong balance sheet to the partnership. All Strategic Partners provide jobs and career training for Native Americans.

NativeOne Advantage

- Lack of regulatory barriers;
- Absence of sales and ad valorem taxes;
- Sales tax exemptions for equipment purchased outside the reservation but used there;
- Exemptions from local, county, and state zoning and land use controls;
- Frequent availability of New Market Tax Credits;
- Expanded financing opportunities for operations on Indian land;
- Availability of HubZone, "Empowerment Zone," and foreign trade zone designations; and,
- Access to Federal Acquisition Regulation 26.102, which provides a 5% incentive from the Department of Defense for contracting with Indian-owned businesses.