

Hi, my name is Dingo. I'm having a great time with Happy Tails, but I am really hoping for a home of my own one day. I'm a high energy boy that loves to play, play, play. I love toys, balls, stuffies, and playing with my brothers and sisters. I'm really good with dogs that are my size, but I get nervous around dogs that are bigger than me. I'm afraid they might hurt me, so I try to keep them away from me. I do warm up and love to play with them once I know I won't get hurt. I think cats are great and love to chase them. It is so much fun. I like to snuggle with them as long as they are willing to lay with me though. I know that I'm supposed to potty outside and know how to use a doggie door too. I do know what a crate is, but I'm such a good boy that I don't need one. I love to play and live to be snuggled with. Would you be willing to give me a home and play with me?
