

Drawing in Pen & Ink

Ever admired people sitting and sketching beautiful scenery, a great fountain in the park, or simply what they see sipping coffee at a cafe? Are the margins of your paper and your note pads filled with doodles? Drawing in pen & ink can be as fun and simple as creating those doodles.

Looking for an enjoyable, relaxing and enriching skill that you can use pretty much anywhere and anytime? Learn the completely portable set of techniques for drawing textures, contours and the values you see in nature and urban settings. By mastering a few simple, easy to use techniques, you will quickly learn to create charming and wonderful pen & ink drawings.

I am offering my next live, online class, "Learning to Draw in Pen & Ink" in September. Students will learn:

- The pen & ink tools and which best suits your personal style
- Techniques such as hatching, crosshatching, stippling, contour hatching, and much more
- Capturing the mood and atmospheric perspective of your subjects
- Care and maintenance of your inking tools

The course design centers on those looking to learn how to draw and sketch using pen & ink, people wanting to learn a new medium, and beginners. Class is for adults 18 and over and will meet on beginning Monday September 21st through October 26th, 6:30pm PDT - 8:30pm PDT.

Class Fee $149.00 and the class will be conducted over Zoom.

Contact Peggy at peggy@milovina-meyer.com for registration information

Peggy Milovina Meyer is a San Francisco Bay Area artist working primarily in colored pencil, graphite and pen and ink. Her work focuses on the natural world. Peggy studied art at De Anza College and San Jose State University. She teaches drawing in multiple mediums. In her teaching, Peggy strives to introduce newcomers to the enjoyment of drawing and self-expression, build confidence, and the importance of balance between creativity and logic.