

The Green River Trip

October 20—26

By Terry Smith

This is canyon country at its best, much of which can be seen only by water. The river level was low, but the fun level was high. This was Barb's and my first multi-day river trip and we were fortunate to have a great group to experience it with. Here are a few photos typical of the 125 miles of the Green River that we traveled.

Our Celebration Dinner, after a shower This Photo by Verne Carlson

