Road Trip for Turkey Day

I love Thanksgiving. It has all the wonderful food and glitz and glamour of Christmas without the agony of gift giving. This year the family gathering was to be at Cousin Joe's in Pocatello where I love to visit. Kate was unhappy over the long drive: a day to get there, a day to spend there, and a day to get back home. Nonetheless we packed up and were ready to go bright and early on the Wednesday.

On the way we had to go by the Western Mall, one of our nation's largest, and I persuaded Kate to stop for just a half hour, to which she grudgingly agreed.

“Meet me in one half hour at the first coffee stand,” she said and I nodded my assent.

I happily tromped off to see what new fashions were available when I suddenly saw Cousin Martha browsing. She also was on her way to Cousin Joe's, but I hadn't seen her in so long I couldn't resist having a gab. Of course I lost track of time and when we reached the coffee stand, Kate was steaming.

“You don't realize what a long hard drive it is,” she growled at me. “You can talk to Martha tomorrow. Now let's get going.” So we hustled on and were at Cousin Joe's just as darkness fell.

There was a light buffet set out and, “We're going to Bingo,” announced Joe. “Anybody who wants to come along, let's go.”

I grabbed sandwich fixings from the table and was in the car in a shake. Kate followed in our car and had several passengers also.

We got to the Bingo Hall just in time to buy-in before the games started, but luckily there was an empty table so all of us could sit together. We had no luck on the first three games, but then Cousin Harvey won the fourth game and we were much encouraged.

The next game was called Pocatello Poke 'em and was one I had never before heard of. It consisted of the N row, the top G, the second O, and the third G, making a P of sorts. Kate won that one which improved her disposition mightily. Next we played a blackout that I was on for but didn't win. Cousin Joe won the next game and then it was all over.

We returned to Joe's where another buffet awaited us. His wife is really one special lady to put up with all the relatives who descended on them for the holiday. By this time Kate was in a much better mood and enjoyed all the relatives. There was one small hitch in the evening. Cousin Joe's eleven-year-old daughter dumped a load of spaghetti in her lap and shed tears of embarrassment until she was cleaned up and pronounced ready to return to the table.

Thanksgiving Day was just marvelous. We all helped with food preparation, and there were many offerings of gratitude for our family and what it means to all of us. Kate surprised us all by making a small speech just before we ate.

“I was reluctant to come,” she admitted. “I had other things to do. I didn't want to drive so far and I knew my dear sister would insist on stopping at the National Mall where there is nothing I want and resent the time we spend there. However,” and she cleared her throat before continuing. “I am coming to value family more and more and wish to announce: this is the best, the most wonderful, the brightest, and the most fun family I have ever been a part of.”

She sat down amid much applause and we had a very nice trip back home.

BRITISH COLUMBIAN SCANDAL PROBED

According to Canadian media, new details are emerging about how organized crime may have first made its way into British Columbia's casinos. A former supervisor who worked for Great Canadian in Richmond, BC, in the mid '90s and early 2000s has come forward with a journal detailing what she claims to have seen on the casino floor. The whistle-blower claims that when the casino increased its bet limits on some games from $25 to $500 per hand the clientele changed, and that many of these high stakes gamblers were accompanied by women who seemed to serve as “human ATMs.”

BIG ACQUISITION IN UK ONLINE GAMING

The company Better Collective says it has acquired the sports betting site mybettingsites in a deal that is worth more than two-and-a-half million dollars. The betting comparison site, formed in 2015, says it plans to double its revenues this year. The company offers a service where it compares betting sites.

ONLINE REVENUES DOWN IN SPAIN

Regulators in Spain report that that country's second quarter gross gaming revenue fell 8% over the previous quarter. The experts attribute the drop to an increase in sports betting, which represents 48.5% of the total. Additionally, Bingo saw a fall in gross profits of about 6%. Spain is among those nations seeing a slow change in the way the “betting pie” is cut up since the increase in sports betting.

NW INDIANA AWAITS NEW CASINO

It will likely be Christmastime 2020 before it opens, but talk of a Hard Rock Casino coming to Gary, Indiana, is loud and exciting. Plans call for visitors to pass by a huge neon-lit guitar at the main entrance to the first land-based casino in Northwest Indiana. The plans also call for a marble walkway through the center of the casino, with numerous table games and thousands of slot machines on each side, surrounded by a variety of bars and restaurants. The casino will feature a 2,000-seat performance venue.

Popcorn Machines Goes Rogue

Bingo player Nora Guy got a little more excitement than she bargained for on a recent trip to Hobart Moose Bingo in Hobart, Indiana. As is her habit, Nora arrived early and was sitting at a table reading before the start of the Tuesday night games. Meanwhile, games administrator and caller Fred Rich was busy preparing for the session, which included setting up the hall's popcorn machine that was used to make free popcorn for the players. Nora looked up from her book and was shocked to see Fred in front of the popcorn machine that was filled with flames. She jumped into action and retrieved a fire extinguisher that she rushed to Fred, who was able to extinguish the fire. But the crisis wasn't over: Acrid smoke began pouring out of the popcorn machine, filling the room. Fred retrieved a rolling cart onto which the two loaded the smoldering popcorn machine and promptly wheeled out of the Bingo hall. Nora also found an industrial fan that was used to clear the smoke from the hall. Thanks to Nora's and Fred's quick actions, disaster was averted and Bingo was able to go on as scheduled.

Bingo Supports Train Museum

The Historic Railpark & Train Museum in Bowling Green, Kentucky, recently hosted a Bingo fundraiser in its Grand Lobby in support of ongoing efforts to maintain the historic site. Along with dinner and a cash bar, participants played 15 games of Bingo for the chance to win a variety of prizes. The entry cost was $35 a person, which included one Bingo card. Players could also buy an "All Aboard" card for $25, which was used for every game except the last game of the night. The Historic Railpark & Train Museum brings alive the magic and adventure of railroading. This historic national landmark allows guests to see, touch, hear and explore important railroad artifacts of the region's heritage through self-guided museum and guided railcar tours.

Seniors Reach Out to Film Star

Residents of The Enclave at Round Rock Senior Living in Round Rock, Texas, located just north of Austin, are hoping film actor Matthew McConaughey will accept their invitation to host a celebrity Bingo event for charity. The group posted a video on Facebook to get the actor's attention. The Enclave is home to 78 residents who want McConaughey to host the event because he's a native of Austin and they are big fans of his films. They plan to donate the proceeds from the event to Just Keep Livin, an organization founded by McConaughey and his wife, Camila, in support of high school students living healthy lives and making smart choices. At press time there was no word on whether McConaughey had responded to the invitation.

Alpha Beta Supports Charity

The Alpha Beta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority held its second annual Charity Bingo event to benefit the Walter E. Boehm Birth Defects Center in Chattanooga, Tennessee. Cost to participate was $15 per person and included six games of Bingo with a twist: Players competed for gift cards instead of cash. Anyone 12 or older could play. In addition to winning prizes, the event featured plenty of food and snacks, including a special $5 hotdog tray with chips, cookie and a drink. Chattanooga's Walter E. Boehm Birth Defects Center provides a comprehensive, multi-disciplinary medical program for children born with congenital birth defects of the central nervous system, including spina bifida and hydrocephalus.

ARIES (MAR 21-APR 20): Survival themes are uppermost for everyone this month, and tension at your job could leave you in a vulnerable position regarding finances. You'll be amazed how a clearer sense of your space translates into peace of mind and clarity.
Lucky Days: 7 - 21
Lucky Numbers: 4 - 36

AQUARIUS (JAN 21-FEB 19): The full moon on the 12th comes with news regarding radical changes on the home front. Dear Dream Catcher Country Roads and Carwashes

Dear Dream Catcher,
Last week I had a dream where I was driving on a dusty country road. A favorite Hank Williams song was playing on the radio but then, suddenly, when I went around a short bend in the road I ended up in a car wash. For a short while I was frightened in the dream because when the car entered the car wash tunnel I couldn't tell what was happening or see anything around me. When I exited the car wash I was in a big city and, oddly, I was wearing high heel shoes. I hope you can make sense of this dream. Thank you.
—Carole K., Mobile, AL

Dear Carole
This is a dream of contrasts. Country life and city life. A dusty road and a car wash. Hank Williams is a nice touch as Alabama was Williams' home state, so his song playing on the radio makes the first part of your dream extra emphatic. Dreams that merge contrasts into one another can mean a marriage of sorts is happening somewhere within your private self. In other words, your unconscious mind is preparing you for an upcoming change or reversal of circumstances, and this is where dreams are often associated with prophecy.

The high heels are the wild card in the dream. Some women loathe high heels while others associate them with glamour and being sexy. If you fall into the later category then I'd say this dream is suggesting you let more of your sensuous, playful self out into the open. The car wash could indicate that you're in a process of letting go of a particular self-image or persona that is more relaxed and carefree, but perhaps it is less socially involved (which being alone in a car can symbolize).

The big city is often associated with more complex and intricate exchanges. In the city we are exposed to all types of different people and often we must interact with those folks through our job. Should you be the type of woman who finds high heel shoes confining, you might find this emersion into a cosmopolitan state of mind a burden. The dream, then, is preparing you by having you analyze and consider the situation before you end up in the middle of a traffic jam. —Dream Catcher

Dear Dream Catcher
I'm always learning something new from you when I read your column so I was really excited when I had this dream last week. I tried to remember as much of it as I could but only small bits of it remained clear. I wish I'd written it down right away. The dream goes like this: I am in a dark room, I think I am laying in a bed and I seem to recall some sort of teacher talking to me and giving me instructions but I am ignoring her. I feel something moving in my mouth and when I open my mouth a butterfly flew out. And then I woke up. Help please! — Jerry T., San Pedro, CA

VETERANS DAY
November 11

Dear Jerry

This is a dream about you finding a new way of communicating with your world, at least that is the very first impression I came up with while reading your email. I mention this because in dream interpretation first impressions count for a lot, always study your first impressions for the strongest clues. Butterflies are key symbols of transformation—leaving one mode of existence and beginning a new one. The mouth is often associated with communication, especially when something is emerging from the mouth. That you ignore the authority figure in the dream tells me that you are ready to fly into a new realm of creative expression, of your own discovery and making. Good luck! — Dream Catcher

Reducing the Rate of Military Suicides

In a joint venture to reduce suicides, the Department of Veterans Affairs, the Department of Defense and the Vet Centers have hooked up to provide counseling and outreach to the National Guard on drill weekends and during training. In 2017, the National Guard had the highest rate of suicide of all the military. Now, however, the rate of National Guard members using the Vet Centers has risen 38%, and the suicide rate has fallen to its the lowest level in five years. It's thought that the increased use of the Vet Center services could be the reason. Meanwhile, the Defense Suicide Prevention Office's most recent report saw 2018 deaths-by-suicide

Caller Snaps at Bingo

Hi Guy,
A lot of us Bingo players have been at this a long time and have certain “traditions” that are innocent and fun. One of them is giving the caller a bit of a hard time when he/she is calling the “wrong” numbers...that is, the numbers other players are looking for and not the ones we want. Of course, sometimes players get frustrated because they are having a bad night and will take it out on the caller with more direct and pointed comments that are less on the “fun” side and more along the lines of “snippy.” But even these people mostly know where to draw the line and limit their jabs to complaining about the caller being too slow, too chatty, or needing to do something so the same “wrong” numbers don’t keep coming up all the time. I give callers credit for taking the friendly (and not-so-friendly) ribbing in stride, understanding that it comes with being the most public person and easiest target during Bingo. I must admit that I'm a little surprised that grumpy players going after callers who are just trying to do their jobs doesn't result in regular shouting matches and the occasional flying dauber. We had an incident at Bingo numbers that were mostly higher than the year before: Air Force 60, Army 139, Marine Corps 58, Navy 68, Reserves 216 and National Guard 135. As the VA continues to try to understand the reasons for veteran suicides, it's looking at limited access to health care and isolation. Up until 2016, Vermont had the nation's highest rate of veteran suicide. By this year, it was reported in Congress that Montana had the highest rate. First thoughts point to rural living and cold weather, yet in California, sunny and warm San Diego has the highest rate for that state. If you think you might be in trouble, or if you know a veteran who is, call the Veterans Crisis Hotline 24/7 at 1-800-273-8255 or go online to www.veteranscrisisline.net. You also can send a text to 838255. Besides the 24/7 hotline, National Guard and Reservists are eligible to use the services of the Vet Centers (there are 300) and Mobile Vet Centers (there are 80). To find out more about what the Vet Centers do, or to find one in your area, go online to www.vetcenter.va.gov.

recently that got out of hand in just this way. It started as one player being unhappy with his card numbers and ribbing the caller about it. Then a second player joined in and the two took turns heckling the caller, who was a good caller, very popular with the players, and had been working at this hall for almost two years. You could tell that the two players were getting on the caller's nerves, but she did her best not to let it show. Then she made the mistake of removing the next ball (I-21) from the chute (which everyone had seen on the monitor) and calling I-27 by mistake. Needless to say, there was a loud burst of objections from the players because everybody knew the wrong number had been called. It was an innocent mistake, of course, but the complaints from players kept going on and on... probably because there had already been tension in the air from the two men who were giving the caller such a hard time earlier on. The caller had an advantage over the situation because she had the microphone—and boy did she use it! She tore into the players about how childish they had been since the start of Bingo, and how ridiculous they were being now. She then called them a roomful of “Bingo bitches and bastards” and stomped across the stage and through the side door. The place went dead silent. After a few minutes someone else took over the caller's seat, officially corrected the I-21 error, and moved on with the rest of the session. The original caller never reappeared, and the substitute caller didn't hear another peep out of us bitches and bastards. Bingo ended about 30 minutes later, and you never saw a hall empty so fast in your life. We're all very curious to see what's going to happen next. — Karl the Bingo Bastard, via email

Hi Karl,
I've seen my share of skirmishes at Bingo over the years, typically between players or between a player and the hall manager. But never have I seen a caller grab the microphone and take on the whole hall! I'm curious if this happened at a charity or a for-profit Bingo hall. If it is for profit, then that caller probably collects a salary and/or tips and may have put her job in jeopardy. If it is charity and she is a volunteer, then she can walk away or stay, without financial hardship being part of the dynamic. Clearly people on both sides of the caller's stand hold some blame for the incident. But in my opinion, the caller's reaction was extreme—name-calling and storming off the stage—which may just cost her this job. Keep us posted on what happens next! — Guy

Bingo Fests and Feasts

Recently we invited readers to write in and tell us about their most memorable Bingo hall dining experiences. Following are a few of the responses we received.

— Aunt Bingo

Dear Aunt Bingo:

My favorite dining experiences are actually whole-big-event experiences that take place at several churches in my region and include Bingo.

These churches have Bingo licenses and offer weekly Bingo throughout the year. But they also have annual festivals or family socials during which they serve food, provide entertainment, and will also have a session or two of Bingo.

One church has a summer festival and sets up a big tent outdoors where people can play Bingo or just sit and relax with a meal out of the sun.

A Greek Orthodox church has a similar event and sells amazing Greek food and also offers Bingo in the church center.

Still another church has a Christmas bazaar where vendors and crafters sell holiday items, students perform holiday music, there's a primo turkey dinner, and Bingo in the evening.

The Christmas turkey dinner is probably my favorite, but it is really hard to stay awake for the Bingo! — JG. New York

Dear Aunt Bingo:

You asked people to write in about unforgettable Bingo hall dining experiences. My most unforgettable is not a meal I had, but one I have witnessed many times by another player.

Mrs. G. brings a small basket with her that not only has food, but also contains china, glassware, cutlery, a tablecloth, placemat, cloth napkin, a vase with flowers and an electric candle—which I assume she uses because there must be a fire code against a candle with an open flame!

Before the start of Bingo, Mrs. G. lays out her place setting and has a lovely candlelit dinner while she waits for Bingo to start. Sometimes friends join her, sometimes she dines alone, but it is a regular ritual with her and is just adorable.

I've been tempted to copy her, except that it seems like too much work! — Alice M., Indiana, via email

Dear Aunt Bingo:

There is a Bingo in our area that has a dining experience that is the best—Free Food!

It is nothing fancy—a free hot dog and drink for paying players—plus they sell other stuff like munchies and additional beverages if you want more.

I think this is the greatest idea because it probably doesn't cost the hall very much and it is a nice gesture to those of us who spend money there every year.

It makes you feel like you are getting a little something back on those many, many nights when the Bingo prizes are going to someone else. — William, via email

Now Here's a Tip!

- Mirrors make a room feel larger, because they reflect space, essentially doubling the visual area. But for maximum impact, experts say to hang your mirror on the wall adjacent to your window, not across from it.

- If you have an issue with odors remaining in your plastic food containers, here's a fix from B.P. in Alabama: "Fill container with hot water, and add a teaspoon of baking soda. Let sit overnight if necessary to remove smells."

- Here's a way to remove stickers. Rub labels with straight white vinegar or soak a paper napkin with vinegar and lay it over the label. Let it sit for 10 minutes, then remove. You should be able to rub the adhesive right off.

- Whether you recycle because of global warming, landfill overload or environmental issues, the planet thanks you. But remember “reduce” and “re-use” are just as important. Choose products with less packaging. Have small appliances fixed instead of automatically replacing them. And keep recycling.

Electric Bikes are Booming Among Boomers

Dear Savvy Senior,
What can you tell me about electric bicycles? A friend of mine, who's almost 70, recently got one and absolutely loves it. He told me he rides more now than he ever did his regular bicycle. — Interested Boomer

Dear Interested,
Electric bikes have become very popular among U.S. baby boomers over the past few years because they're super fun to ride and easier on an aging body. Electric bikes, also known as e-bikes, are conventional bicycles with a battery-powered "pedal" or "throttle" assist. When you saddle up and push the pedals or throttle, a small motor engages and gives you a boost, so you can whiz up hills, ride into headwinds and cruise over challenging terrain without gassing yourself or taxing your knee joints. Many older e-bike riders say that they ride more frequently and go further and longer than they ever would with a traditional bike. Here's what you should know about e-bikes, along with some tips to help you choose one.

What to Know
E-bikes are more complicated and expensive than regular bicycles, so you need to do some research before you purchase one. For starters, you need to know that there are three different types of e-bikes to choose from:

- Class 1: "Pedal-assist" electric bikes that only provides assistance when the rider is pedaling, and only up to 20 miles per hour. These are the most common type of electric bikes.
- Class 2: "Throttle-assist" e-bikes that let you use the electric motor without pedaling, like a motorcycle or scooter, but only up to 20 miles per hour.
- Class 3: "Speed pedal-assist" e-bikes, similar to Class 1, except that the motor will assist with bike speeds of up to 28 miles per hour.

Because they're electrically powered, states and local communities have varying regulations regarding the use of e-bikes. In many states, class one and two e-bikes are allowed to be ridden wherever a traditional bike goes, while class three are generally allowed on the street due to their higher top speed. For more information on your state's e-bike laws, visit PeopleForBikes.org/e-bikes.

You should also know that e-bikes come in many different styles – commuter, cruiser, mountain, road, folding, etc. – just like traditional bikes to meet different riding needs. They also run on rechargeable lithium-ion batteries, and their motors are either hub-driven mounted on the front or rear wheel, or mid-drive motors that are mounted to the frame at the bottom bracket between the cranks. The only downsides of e-bikes are weight and cost. Because of the battery and motor, e-bikes are much heavier than traditional bicycles weighing 50-plus pounds, so it can be more challenging if you have to manually lift or maneuver your bike a lot. And e-bikes are expensive, typically ranging between $2,500 and $3,500. E-bikes are made by many of the same established companies that make traditional bikes like Specialized, Electra, Schwinn, Trek, Giant, Cannondale and Felt, along with a number of upstarts like Juiced Faraday, Pedego, Elby and Hi Bike. To shop for an e-bike, find some good bike shops in your area that sell them so you can test ride a few. If you're interested in a cheaper option, there are also e-bike kits you can purchase at places like Walmart, Amazon.com and eBikeKit.com that can convert your regular bike into an e-bike for a few hundred dollars.

Vietnamese Immigrant Wins Canadian Lotto

Bon Truong, of Edmonton, Canada, has been playing the same lottery numbers for decades. His faith in those numbers finally paid off when he won $60 million in the Western Canada Lottery. When Truong initially checked and saw he was a winner, he found it nearly impossible to believe. He went to a local store and asked the clerk to print the winning numbers so he could check again. He said he looked back and forth at the printout and his ticket for hours. The numbers, which represented important dates and family birthdays, matched. “I started to think about what this win would mean for my family,” said Truong, who immigrated to Canada from Vietnam 30 years ago. He took several months before stepping forward to claim his prize. “I realized it’s going to change a lot of things and I wanted to make sure we were all ready and prepared for those changes,” he said. Truong plans to pay all his bills, buy a new home, save some money and take his family on a vacation. “I’m not sure where just yet,” Truong said. “I think we’ll try to go everywhere!”

Pocket Kings Propel Ensan to Main Event Title

By Chad Holloway

The 50th annual World Series of Poker at the Rio in Las Vegas culminated with the $10,000-buy-in No-Limit Hold'em World Championship, better known as The Main Event. This year's edition attracted 8,569 players, making it the second-largest Main Event in WSOP history.

It took 10 long days for a winner to emerge, and the tournament ended in a memorable hand. It happened in Level 43 (blinds of 2 million-4 million, plus a 4 million ante), on the 301st hand of the final table. That's when Hossein Ensan raised to 11 million with Kh Kc, and Dario Sammartino defended his big blind with 8s 4s.

The 10s 6s 2d flop was interesting, as it gave Sammartino a flush draw. Nonetheless, he checked and opted to just call a bet of 15 million from Ensan, who was still ahead with his pocket kings (also known as "cowboys").

After the dealer burned and turned the 9c, Sammartino checked for the second time, and Ensan kept the pressure on with a bet of 33 million. Sammartino, who picked up a gutshot straight draw to a seven, then sprung to life with an all-in check-raise for 140 million.

In poker, "fold equity" is the equity players can expect to gain due to their opponent(s) folding to a bet. Here, Sammartino didn't have a made hand, but if Ensan didn't either, then perhaps Sammartino could get him to fold by check-raising all in. His fold equity was tied to his chances of success.

Some players might have been deterred by the shove, but not Ensan. He snap-called and was one card away from winning poker's most prestigious title. According to the math, Ensan was a 72.7 percent favorite to win the hand, while Sammartino had a 27.3 percent chance of hitting one of his outs, which included any spade or seven.

The dealer burned one last time and put out the 9c on the river. Sammartino missed and had to settle for second place, though he had $6 million in prize money to help ease the pain.

"It is the best feeling I have in all my life," the 55-year-old champion said.

Ensan, who was born in Iran but moved to Germany 30 years ago, had achieved the pinnacle of poker success after taking up tournament poker just six years earlier.

"I am so happy," Ensan said in a post-victory interview. "I thank my fans at home in Germany, also in Iran, and my fans, my buddies here. This is the best feeling in my life. Unbelievable! I am so happy, I'm here with the bracelet in hand. What can I say?"

What the poker world had to say after the fact was that the new champion had kept his composure, played well, used well-timed aggression to his benefit, and was fully deserving of the victory.

Congratulations to Hossein Ensan on becoming the 2019 WSOP Main Event champion and taking home a prize of $10 million.

VINTAGE SLOT MACHINES GIVEAWAY

A recent promotion at The Plaza in downtown Las Vegas drew a lot of attention. The facility staged a promotion that promised chances to win vintage, coin-operated slot machines from days gone by. All of the machines involved in the give-away were at least twenty-five years old or older.

WHEN A "PENNY" MACHINE ISN'T

Many tourists to Las Vegas say they are confused by the fact that many slot machines that have a one-cent sign on them are FAR from being penny slot machines. It is getting increasingly more difficult to find a true penny machine—one that will let you actually play only

ONE penny for each pull of the lever. At McCarran International Airport, for example, some of the so-called "penny" machines require a minimum bid of nearly two dollars with each "spin."

WISCONSIN TOURIST HITS A BIG ONE

The Flamingo in Las Vegas reports that a Wisconsin man won $1.3 million playing a Let It Ride progressive slot machine. The winner is a frequent visitor to Las Vegas. The win marks the eighth time in recent months that a player has won at least $1-million while playing table games at Caesars properties in Nevada.

ASK ANNIE

Turkey Transformed

Dear Annie,
I know this request is a little early, but I would like to know what to do with my leftover turkey bones. Please help me! I will be having a large turkey for my family, probably at least 20 pounds. Thanks. — Tricia T. from Tennessee

Dear Tricia,
Many years ago I lost a good friend. Her husband gave me her entire collection of cookbooks. Here is a recipe from her for turkey soup that I am sure you will like. — Annie

TURKEY SOUP

- Turkey Stock
Bones and carcass from leftover turkey
8 peppercorns
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon dried thyme
6 whole cloves
6 sprigs parsley
1 medium onion, diced
3 ribs celery, diced
1 carrot, diced

Break the carcass into small pieces and put in a stockpot or large kettle with all the remaining ingredients for the turkey stock. Add 4 quarts of cold water and bring to a boil. Reduce the heat at once and simmer uncovered for 2 1/2 to 3 hours, or until reduced by half. Strain. Cool uncovered and refrigerate until ready to use. Remove the fat. The heated broth may be served as is, used as turkey stock, or used as a base for turkey soup.

- Turkey Soup
3 large onions, chopped fine
3 ribs celery, chopped fine
2 carrots, peeled and chopped
2 sticks butter (1/2 pound)
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
3 quarts turkey stock
2 cups light cream
salt and pepper
1/2 cup finely diced cooked turkey (I would add more, if available)
1/4 cup cooked rice

Cook the onions, celery and carrots in a little water in a saucepan for 20 minutes or until tender. Set aside. In a large heavy pan, melt the butter and thoroughly blend in the flour over a low heat. Heat the turkey stock and cream. Add very gradually to the butter-flour mixture, stirring with a whisk until the lumps disappear. Add the reserved vegetables, the water in which they were cooked, and the seasonings. Taste and correct the seasoning. Add the turkey and rice. Serve in large bowls. Makes 3 quarts of soup.

Your comments and questions about cooking and entertaining will be addressed in this monthly column. Write to “Ask Annie” c/o Annie Ennis, 8312 SE 168th Trinity Place, The Villages, FL 32162. So Ask Annie. Don’t forget you can E-mail me at aennis@thevillages.net. And let’s get cooking.
