

CJ Davis

Christopher Davis was born in Bronx, New York. Since he was young, he had the love of dance in him. At the age of two he started to learn the art of hip-hop dance. Since then he has moved to North Carolina where he has done numerous auditions and performed for 96.1 the beat, Americas Got Talent, and even has performed in three plays in Owen's Auditorium. He recently graduated from Winthrop University in Rock Hill, South Carolina where he majored in dance along with a minor in business. He has performed in various showcases and dance theatre events since being at Winthrop, which has made his love for dance grow even more. He has choreographed dances for repertory groups and different schools while attending the university. He has performed for fitness icon, Shaun T as well as a variety of local artists. It is his aspiration to be a choreographer for stars, and travel with his gift internationally.