The text for the Nunc Dimittis is taken from Luke 2:20-32 of the Latin Vulgate and is commonly referred to as the Canticle of Simeon. In the Roman rite, the Canticle is sung at Candlemas (“Candle Mass”) and during the concluding office of the day, the office of Compline. It is also sung along with the Magnificat (the Canticle of Mary), usually in English, during evensong in the Anglican tradition. The text has been famously set to music by many composers. Influenced by chant, renaissance composers, like Josquin, Byrd, and Victoria, have written some of the most beautiful polyphonic settings. My setting, from my larger work, Compline, juxtaposes the same renaissance techniques of imitation and polyphonic writing with a unique and modern harmonic sound. It is my humble attempt to pay homage to the most inspirational of renaissance composers, Palestrina.

My Nunc Dimittis is written for nine parts and divided into three groups: the first group, S1, S2, A1, the second group, A2, A3, T1, and the third group, T2, B1, B3. Each group should be placed according to the performance suggestions found at the bottom of the page. The piece incorporates an incipit (intoning chant) at the beginning of each section and is loosely adapted from the Nunc Dimittis at Candlemas which can be found on the following page. Regardless of differing performance practices, the diamond shaped notes in the incipit should be sung slightly faster than the round notes. While the stylistic techniques of this piece are imitative and chant-like, the form is a bit minimalistic. There are four sections (Nunc, Quia, Lumen, and Gloria), and each time a new section begins, after the incipit, another vocal part is added to each group. The same melodic and harmonic material is present in each section until the Gloria, where all the parts are singing the main theme in unison. The piece concludes with a final Amen that is sure to bring utter delight to your choir.

Latin

*Nunc dimittis servum tuum, Domine
 Secundum verbum tuum in pace:
 Quia viderunt oculi mei salutare tuum
 Quod parasti ante faciem omnium populorum:
 Lumen ad revelationem gentium,
 Et gloriā plebis tuae Israel.*

*Gloria Patri, et Filio, et Spiritui Sancto.
 Sicut erat in principio, et nunc, et semper,
 et in saeculorum.
 Amen*

Translation

Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace:
 according to thy word.
 For mine eyes have seen thy salvation,
 Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people;
 To be a light to lighten the Gentiles and to be the glory of thy people Israel.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son,
 and to the Holy Spirit: as it was in the beginning,
 is now, and forever shall be.
 Amen

MARK TEMPLETON, born 1974, is an American choral composer, conductor, and countertenor. Templeton's music has been described by the Boston Music Intelligencer as "charming and entertaining, playing with homophony and polyphony, and having a winning way with neo-romantic sweet dissonances." Some of his music is published by Santa Barbara Music Publishing, and he has recently started to self-publish. His music for men's voices, including When I Hear Her I Have Wings, has been performed across the world at various international festivals and ACDA conventions. His Missa Brevis has recently been featured in a doctoral dissertation at Florida State University. Templeton is also a sought after performer and clinician. He currently sings countertenor with Vox Populi, Delaware's professional chamber choir. He resides with his wife, Becca, at West Nottingham Academy in Colora, Maryland, the oldest boarding school in the United States, where he is the director of choral activities, music theory, and music composition. He also enjoys coaching, playing, and watching soccer when he is not working. He is available for commission upon request.
