

January 16, 2020

Unimax Communications is aware of the Malware Blog¹ posted on January 7th, 2020, raising concerns about certain applications and/or potential malware on cell phone model number U683CL. After investigating this issue, Unimax Communications has determined that the applications described in the posting are not malware. In reviewing these applications, however, Unimax Communications has determined that there may be a potential vulnerability in the Settings App library. Because of this, Unimax Communications has updated software to correct the potential vulnerability. Customers will be prompted to download and install the latest security updates that will be available within the next week. To Unimax Communications' knowledge, no customer data has been compromised.

Unimax Communications takes the security of its devices seriously and is committed to addressing any issues. For any other information, please contact Unimax Communications directly at info@unimaxmobile.com.

¹ <https://blog.malwarebytes.com/posting>