The learning environment at team practices and at competitive events is designed to include the element of fun for all participants. Good sportsmanship, individual responsibility, self-discipline, positive academic progress and personal commitment are emphasized in the CYSSA and Colfax Falcons Trap program.

A team is a group of people organized to work together interdependently and cooperatively to meet the needs of the group. If we are to be a successful team we need to follow this definition. Any time a person asks a question that sounds like or refers to "What's in it for me", they are not a team member and must be corrected in order for the team to survive

Students need to provide their own shotguns to be eligible to participate. Sharing shotguns and equipment, unfortunately, is not permitted. Students must also have appropriate equipment each week or they will not be allowed to shoot: safety glasses, hearing protection, shell pouch or vest, and a few extra shells. We shoot rain or shine, only stopping for lightning or hail – it's a good idea to have rain gear or jackets available.
