

Salvation Army

Founded by William and Catherine Booth, both Methodists. William had become a Methodist minister and his wife a preacher. In 1865 they formed the Christian Mission in London. Like Wesley they did not set out to form a separate church.

Aim to preach to men and women untouched by ordinary religion.

Later their son Bramwell Booth, noted that in a report of the Christian Mission that they were described as a Volunteer Army. William also disagreed with this wording and changed Volunteer to Salvation. So by 1878 the group had become the Salvation Army.

Belief: Salvation of sinners
