

Good News & Exciting Changes!

In the fall of 2012 Dr. Elizabeth M. Darby, a long-time community supporter and optometrist of Lynchburg, announced her retirement. Considerable evaluation went into her search to find her successor—a decision she did not take lightly. The care for her patients over many years created very trusted relationships so her selection was made carefully. Dr. Darby felt Dr. Luke Wagoner, O.D. was ideal to continue her optimal patient care. Dr. Wagoner's personable demeanor, thoughtful explanation, excellent patient care, and warm chair-side manner with each patient interaction impressed Dr. Darby and brought her great comfort.

Dr. R. Luke Wagoner is from a large family spanning Virginia and North Carolina. He is a graduate of Appalachian State University where he earned a B.S. in Education. After being a public Middle School teacher for three years, he returned to school and earned his Doctorate of Optometry from Southern College of Optometry in Memphis, TN. He further advanced his training to include management and treatment of glaucoma and diabetes at the Memphis Veterans Affairs Hospital. Dr. Wagoner honed his skills and expertise in an advance clinical setting, but prefers to use them in a private family practice. He provides the latest treatments and advanced digital diagnostics in a warm and comfortable environment. Dr. Wagoner also has a special interest in treating dry eye, red eye, and anterior segment trauma and pathology.

His professional memberships include the American and Virginia Optometric Associations and Southwestern Virginia Optometric Society. Additionally, he is on the panel of InfantSee doctors and was counted among the Who's Who in Optometry in 2005.

Dr. Wagoner and his wife, Annie, consider it a true blessing to have met Dr. Elizabeth Darby and her husband, Jim. The Wagoners prayerfully considered moving to the Lynchburg area for the last two years.

Researching practice opportunities in the area, it was clear and evident how caring and generous Dr. Darby was with those under her care. Dr. Wagoner and the dedicated staff of the newly renamed, Wagoner Family Eye Care, are committed to continuing to provide the highest level of vision care by offering thorough eye health examinations, personalized service, and quality products in a beautiful optical boutique setting.

Wagoner Family Eye Care supports their patients' quality of life through education, prevention, and early detection. Patients are treated with the utmost respect in a caring, service-oriented, family-friendly atmosphere. Doctor and Mrs. Wagoner are dedicated to continuing and expanding life-long relationships with Lynchburg families.

Everything we do is in the spirit of establishing a lasting relationship with you, your family and our community. We thank you for the opportunity.
