

The WPA Bucharest Statement on Collaborative and Integrated Care

The World Psychiatric Association, 2015 Bucharest International Congress

Palace of Parliament Bucharest, ROMANIA, 24-27 June 2015

WHEREAS, cardiovascular and mental disorders lead in the global burden of non-communicable diseases;

WHEREAS, most mental disorders are attended to in primary care;

WHEREAS, mental disorders account for 30-45% of the global burden of disability;

WHEREAS, 50% of mental disorders exist by age 14, and 75% by age 24;

WHEREAS, these disorders result in billions of dollars of negative economic consequences across low-, middle-, and high-income nations;

WHEREAS, significant global health systems fragmentation diminishes access to care and its effectiveness;

WHEREAS, more research into the brain and into the determinants of health is needed;

WHEREAS, effective treatments for mental disorders exist for most cases; and

WHEREAS, the collaboration and integration of primary care, mental health, and public health is proven to enhance access, quality, and sustainability;

NOW BE IT RESOLVED THAT

United Nations member states adopt collaborative and integrated care as a means toward achieving total health for all in the 21st Century; and be it further resolved that

This goal be included in the updated United Nations Sustainable Development Goals; and be it further resolved that,

United Nations member states allocate the necessary human, financial, and technological resources for training, education, and implementation of this resolution.
