Plan to miss...

Now what kind of a thing is that to say while playing a game that you can't win if you miss...

Maybe I should say pick your first dart of an out shot carefully, so that if you don't hit the triple, you still have a two dart out...for example, what do you shoot first with 119 left? t20? no, because a single 20 leaves you 99 which requires 3 darts. You shoot t19; if you hit it, 62 remains which is either t10, d10 or 12, dbull; if you miss and hit a single 19, you have 100 left which is t20, d20 ... so many choices ... so keep in mind what may happen if you miss, but don't dwell on the miss because you will find yourself hitting the target that is foremost in your mind.

Practice up and only throw "smart" darts...Lou.

Thoughts.....Darts

Visual...what?

From everything I read, success in anything is often achieved by a thing called visualization. To me, this means watching something in my mind's eye as I would like to see it happen.

Since your brain has trouble telling if it was real or imagined, it thinks it happened; therefore, it can happen again, so when it is time to do it, it happens naturally.

So, be sure your visualizations are positive and not negative, because it is amazing how often, your "movie in your brain" comes true. ... Lou.

Why is it?

that you seem to play at the level of your opponent without even trying?

that often after losing the first game of a match that you come back and win by taking the next two games?
