posted – October 4, 2016

At the start of the 2012/2013 school year, 1,983 students were reported as 9th graders in Hampton City Schools. By the time those 9th should be donning their cap and gowns at the end of the 2015/2016 school year, Hampton reported the 12th grade enrollment at 1,267. That would be 716 fewer students.

By the time graduation is over and reporting is compiled by the state, the cohort count was at 1509 for the class of 2016. Somewhere, an additional 241 students swooped back in, maybe early graduates from previous years to be recorded with their class, the class of 2016. Of those 1509 students, 1408 are considered graduates or completers.

For a comparison, Fairfax County – the largest school district in the state – in 2012/2013 had a 9th grade student count of 14,151. For the 2015/2016 school year, Fairfax County’s reported enrollment for 12th grade at 13,882. That’s a loss of 241 students or 1.9% compared to Hampton’s loss of 36.11%.

How did Fairfax County fair in the graduation reporting? The total is 14,087. This mean from the fall student count to graduation time, 186 additional students were counting with the Fairfax County graduating class of 2016. Of those 14,087, 13,075 students are considered graduates or completers.
