

Your Women's Golf Association Can Make a Difference . . .

. . . by participating each year in a state-wide fundraising effort among ladies' golf associations, clubs, leagues or other organized groups to raise money for the Junior Girls Golf Scholarship Fund (JGGSF.)

Women's organizations are encouraged to approach fundraising from the perspective that works best for them, with the final outcome that all the donations together help ensure more scholarships become available to deserving young women.

What is Penny-A-Stroke?

Penny-A-Stroke is an easy way to fund raise and a nod to tradition. Individual members of women's golf associations pledge to donate one penny for each stroke made during play of the group's regular golf outings. Associations collect these penny per stroke donations from their members, and at the end of the season make a single donation totaling the penny donations from their members to JGGSF in support of the Women's Golf Association Scholarship fund raising efforts. One little penny alone may not seem like much, but all together has the power to grow the good done by JGGSF!

What If We Would Rather Conduct a Single Event?

Go for it!

The most important part is to remember to make the event fun. You know best what your members will enjoy. It could be purchasing mulligans or a sand toss. Others may prefer donating for every three-putt. Use your own imagination, the sky's the limit!

Keep it simple!

Make the game simple so players can easily determine how much they owe. And remember too, keep it affordable. You want everyone to look forward to playing again to support this worthy cause.

Set a goal!

If you know how much your organization contributed last year, you may want to increase the amount and make it your new goal. If not, set a goal that will make you proud and is reasonably attainable.

Plan ahead!

Set a date and get it on your golf calendar. Allow enough time to get word out to players. They need to know the date and format of the event. Consider:

- Creating a flier
- Posting a notice in the locker room

- Telling the pro and posting notice in the golf shop
- Emailing information and reminders
- Promoting on Facebook or using other social media

Be sure everyone realizes your fundraiser is benefitting the Junior Girls Golf Scholarship Fund.
