

Physics NINJA

Brain Twisters

Two identical marbles start with the same initial speed and roll down two different tracks. Marble A rolls down a straight track having a slight slope from start to finish and marble B rolls on the second track from the same start position to the same finish position. Both marbles never lose contact with the tracks and roll without slipping. If both start simultaneously from rest, which do you predict will finish first?

