Imagine waking up going outside and seeing children playing in front of a vacant building.

It scares me ~~not~~ knowing what can happen. If city officials put a stop to this than more parents would feel safe and bring these children out of the house.

I agree with other humans who believe that vacant buildings are causing problems all over the world. Some times I go outside and see all of the vacant buildings in my area even though they might have pretty and colorful boards on them they still are a very bad thing in our neighborhood.

The city empty buildings are a sign of prosperity, but a nightmare for neighbors and local residents. Meanwhile a homeless advocate wonders whether the abandoned buildings present have an opportunity for better circumstances.

If these buildings had opportunities and not just abandoned with boards on them it will be the different of the future.

In conclusion being able to stop the prosperity and horrible problems vacant buildings are causing we all need HAVE to join and do something about it.
