Sacrarium

The practice is to be kept of building a sacrarium, a special sink in the sacristy. The sacrarium should have a cover, a basin, and a special pipe and drain that empty directly into the earth, rather than into the sewer system. After Mass, when the vessels are rinsed and cleansed, the water is poured into the sacrarium so that any remaining particles that might be left will not be poured into the sewer but will go directly into the earth. When the purificators and corporals are rinsed before being washed, the water is disposed of in the sacrarium. It can also be used to discard old baptismal water, left-over ashes, and the previous year's oils, if they are not burned.
