

Erin Darby

Administrative Assistant & Farm Educator

As one of the founding teachers at Heritage Creek Farm Camp, Erin Darby has worked or volunteered at the farm in various capacities for five years. She is currently the Administrative Assistant and works as a Farm Educator for both seasonal and summer programs. Erin also oversees the Junior Counselor Teen Leadership Program.

Wife, and mother of 2, she home-schooled her children for 8 years. She has been an assistant to the grade teachers and worked in the early childhood classroom at the Susquehanna Waldorf School. As a labor doula; Erin has witnessed the miracle of childbirth 16 times. She is also a 200 hour Certified Yoga Instructor that teaches group classes at various locations throughout Lancaster and York counties.

Erin finds the practice of yoga and meditation as well as spending time in the great outdoors helpful in maintaining a connection to the self, to others, and to the Earth. She has participated in several wilderness and re-wilding classes. She supports local, organic, homegrown and homemade in areas like farming, healthcare, lifestyle and childrearing. She enjoys reading books, singing, learning new things and laughing.
