

EVOLVING Pictures

Jeffrey 'Brick Bronsky' Beltzner: Producer, 'Mad Monster Party' remake Motion Picture, working in the Executive Producer capacity exclusively for Evolving Pictures since its inception, has successfully overseen the financing, of the development, expansion, and fruition of the Company on practically all of its endeavors, including but not limited to, the major motion picture franchises: 'Mad Monster Party', 'Sadako; The Magic of Paper Cranes', and the 'Necroscope' book series.

Jeffrey 'Brick Bronsky' Beltzner

An alumnus of Penn State University, Jeff Beltzner has been active in the entertainment industry for now a quarter of a century. While becoming known as Brick Bronsky, both on stage and screen, from his early world-wide Professional Wrestling days, working for the premiere wrestling organizations internationally (including the late Stu Hart's Canadian based) Stampede Wrestling, and Vince McMahon's current publically traded company Titan Sports (World Wrestling Entertainment), and subsequent starring and guest appearing in, several theatrically released feature films for New York based Troma, Inc. (including 'Sgt. Kabukiman, N.Y.P.D.', and the 'Class of Nuke 'Em High' franchise), Mr. Beltzner garnered a wealth of knowledge in both international marketing, and the utilization of strategic demographics, in order to effectively cull through a myriad of intellectual property, and ultimately connect the most viable entertainment product, to the most commercially receptive audiences, thereby maximizing his fiduciary responsibility to the Company.

