

Harbor Wave Project Brings it to Two Harbors Waterfront

By Kitty Mayo

As part of "The Harbor Wave Project" in Two Harbors music, art and more are coming to downtown's Waterfront Business District this summer. Thinking outside-of-the-box creative people are working in collaboration to bring visual and auditory surprises to life.

Part of the project is called Rails to Radio Pop-up Performances, orchestrated by Kim and Jose Leon. The performances are held in a variety of downtown locations in the open air (weather permitting) throughout the summer.

The performances, ranging from musical, to storytelling, will be professionally recorded by the Leons and will be available to view (about 30 minutes worth) on the KTWH radio YouTube Channel.

Here is the current lineup:

Friday, July 9th at 2:00 pm, Todd Eckart, guitarist and crooner.

Sunday, July 11th at 2:00 pm, Steve Solkela the Overpopulated One-Man Band.

Friday, July 16th at 2:00 pm, Adam Moe, ukulele, guitar, singer-songwriter-storyteller.

Friday, July 16th at 5:00 pm, Gina Lee, guitarist, singer-songwriter.

Sunday, August 22nd at 1:30 pm, Severio Mancieri, guitar virtuoso.

Sunday, August 22nd at 3:00 pm, Ty Johnson, country singer-guitarist.

*In the event of rain the performances will be held in the American Legion, main floor stage.
