

The Dharma Horses & their stories

Vega

Vega was going to be killed on a Friday when Katharine was contacted on that Wednesday by a friend who knew this horse well. She left immediately to see him, stopping by to ask her brother (where he works) his feelings on the matter. He said, "If this horse wants to live, bring him home".

Vega was a gentle, friendly, lively soul who indeed wanted to live. The friend got him over to DH and Vega got teeth floating and hoof care immediately. It was determined that he is 35 years old! After some time under saddle, we realized that must have been a very accomplished Event (combined training) horse. He knows his Dressage (at least third level) and he knows his distances and is athletic over 3'6" jumps. Vega has a LOT to teach us still!

And he is a total delight to work with on the ground or under saddle. He is funny and has flawless manners. We adore him. It would have been a sad waste for this special horse to have died before his time. He still has much to share and he just loves all the fresh foods and loving kindness at DH.
