

LANDO

“We believe in producing intensely flavored and yet balanced wines. Our definition of balance relates to beautiful and lush aromatics, a sensuous and saturating mid palate, and a lengthy captivating finish – a complete wine from start to finish. These are the wines we enjoy drinking and sharing with friends and family”, Sam Lando

Sam Lando started his career in the wine business working for some of the large global wine producers, and soon identified his true love of working with small boutique wineries...and Pinot Noir. While his emphasis was sales and marketing, he realized early on the need to understand as much as possible about differing winemaking and viticulture techniques. After working with and becoming friends with some of the best new world Pinot Noir producers, it was a natural evolution to begin hobby winemaking.

In the summer of 2012, Sam and his wife Jennifer decided to make the leap and take their winemaking hobby to the next level. They borrowed against their savings and began building the foundation to develop a small Pinot Noir focused winery. The 2015 vintage represents the fourth release of Lando Pinot Noirs. The intensity, and textures are electrifying - we hope you enjoy them as much as we do.

2015 SONOMA COAST PINOT NOIR

Release date: October, 2017

Cases produced: 430

Alcohol: 14.8%

Time in barrel: 16 months, 45% new, 35% once used, and 20% neutral

Recommended drinking time: 6 months to 5 years from release. Should you open a bottle early, please decant or allow to breathe for an hour for maximum enjoyment.

Tasting Notes: Deep and piercing blue berry fruit on the nose. Layers of spice and fresh fruit saturate the palate... The finish reveals notes of luscious dark berries and undertones of minerality and silky tannins.

Recent Press for the 2015 Sonoma Coast Pinot Noir:

Wine Spectator, Jim Laube –Sept. 30, 2017. Score: 91 points. Tasting Note, “Broad, rich and layered, impressively concentrated and complex, building on a core of blueberry and blackberry flavors, with hints of spice and savory earth. Finishes with dense tannins. Drink now through 2023. 430 cases made.”
