

Plymouth Brethren

Founded by John Walker, taken over in 1828 by John Nelson Darby a former Church of England clergyman.

Founded by John Nelson Darby (1800-1882) a minister of the protestant church of Ireland and Edward Cronin, a Roman Catholic in 1827. John Darby settled in Plymouth giving the movement it's popular name.

Split into several groups:

Exclusives, Open, Kellyites, Newtonites and Bethesda

Services consist of bread, wine and readings

Beliefs: No organisation, no pastors since they believe in direct contact with God, Bible is literally accurate, baptism at 13 plus, second coming, all existing churches to be rejected, women not to speak at meetings, keep separate so as to be pure.

Bethesda: Objects House to house visitation for instruction in spiritual truth, circulation of scriptures and tracts, to hold mission and cottage services, relief of the poor and sick, occasional teas for poor persons. Evangelical and unsectarian.

Open Brethren: Meetings open to all Christians

Closed or Exclusive Brethren: Added new rules in 1965 designed to prevent saints, members, from having any contact with sinners, non-members. Members sharing homes with non-members to be expelled, members must declare bank balance, unmarried members, single or widowed, must marry as soon as possible within the sect, no radio, television, books, newspapers, visits to places of entertainment, cafes etc., no windows in meeting places.
