

I believe that volunteerism is a positive and supported effort that enriches ones quality of life. As I reflect back, I see the many smiles of those of them who I have come in contact with through WEW, Inc. The thought brings a smile to my face just to know that I had an impact individually or whether by a collaborative effort to touch lives. Just to know and to see the smile on a single mom's face as well as her son, when we assisted and taught her how to transform her living condition on a minimum cost. After her living/dining transformation she was so eager to use her skills to transform her bedrooms it help her realized that her quality of life is what she makes of it.

When I think about the skills classes that we (WEW, Inc.) offers and how it touch the life of a 50-year old woman who was out of work and seeking to get her GED, or the young pregnant mother of two who was pondering on giving her unborn child away (without our knowledge) decided to keep her child when she realized she could make it.

A mother of three who was seeking to improve her skills, because she was laid off of her job; she had a fear of interviews-got a job after taking our classes was all worth it the time we give to transform lives. The annual conference that WEW, Inc. offers every year has afforded us the opportunity to impacting the lives of many women and girls. Reaching one at any cost!. When I think of the youths that we had the opportunity to serve, it has been awesome. Whether by offering a scholarship to help further one's education, or just putting a tiara on a young girl's head to let you know that she is special and valuable. Just seeing her confidence level improve brings a smile and tears of joy!

We offer a "Youth Affair" for youths that allows them to dress up as young boys and girls teaching and building self-esteem, etiquette and good clean fun. When I think about World Vision, Habitat for Humanity and North Texas Food Bank, my heart is full with joy just to know the boxes that I pack or the nail that I hammered all help to impact someone's life.

Volunteerism mean working together for one common goal, that's why I love working with Might Ministries, Inc. meeting the needs of the community, and the person as a whole; through the distribution of clothing, food, toiletries, etc. All to impact the life of others spiritually and physically so that they can reach back and help one.

Blessings,

Minister Cynthia
