LAWYERS ARE NOTARIES

Introduction: I have written this report based on questions often asked of me while in private law practice in British Columbia and Alberta, Canada, since 1975. Although my first hand experience is limited to those jurisdictions, wherever possible I have written in non-legal terms and with general principles in mind.

Many people do not realize that lawyers are also notaries, or do not know the difference between lawyers and notaries.

Lawyers are notaries. The training that lawyers undertake is dramatically larger than that taken by notaries, with the result that when lawyers earn an LLB or JD, they also earn the right to do all notarial work.

The reverse is not true. Notaries are not lawyers.

You wouldn't expect to read anything "legal" without some kind of caution - so here it is: This report is general information only and not to be relied upon without legal advice. For legal advice, call us.

I hope this helped answer your questions.
