“BASKETBALL” Parent Conduct and Responsibilities

P.A.L. requires that parents and spectators conduct themselves in a manner that will promote the games and bring credit to their team, coach, children, participants and the P.A.L. organizations.

Think before you act or speak, here are some rules to follow when you are at the games or practice:

- 1) Cheer positively, only positive words should come out of your mouth during the game or practice. There is no place for negative comments or criticism of players of either team, other parents, referees or coaches.
- 2) If you feel a sudden urge to yell or say something to the coach, referee, player or parent, take a walk and leave the facility to cool off before you say something that will embarrass you or your child.
- 3) Don't be a sideline coach. Don't bellow instructions to your child from the sideline, it is very distracting and embarrassing to your child as well as his/her team mates. The referees may misunderstand your comments, potentially penalizing your child's team. If you want to be a coach sign up we can and will accommodate your wishes to coach.
- 4) Teach your children good sportsmanship by example. If the opposing team has performed well let them know. Don't blame a loss on a bad call or the referee, coach or a team mate. How will your child learn responsibility if you don't teach it? "Teach by Example"
- 5) Remember, all of our P.A.L. referees are volunteer and donate a great deal of time to our children. Without them we would not have games. They are there because they love the game and our community and choose to be there. Remember "bad calls" "may" only be bad in your mind but "all" calls are part of the game. Accept it, the game will go on.

Remember: Coaches have the responsibility to ensure that their players and parents conduct themselves properly. The Coach is ultimately responsible for the actions of his/her team and is required to ensure that spectators do not demonstrate intimidating and/or unacceptable behavior towards referees, officials, players, opposing team members, other parents or spectators.

I have read the above and agree to maintain appropriate behavior. If I do not, I understand that my actions could cause forfeiture of my child's game and/or my/our removal from the premises. .
