Atlanta’s Public Access Cable Channel, People TV Atlanta Producers Win Hometown Media Award

ATLANTA, GA (July 8, 2015) – People TV won! People TV producers, Patricia Crayton and Adrian Coleman-Tyler, are winners of the 2015 Hometown Media Awards in the About Access & Empowerment category. The category honors media created to inform the viewer about an access center, access channel, or the concept of public, educational, or government access; programs that exemplify how community access television empowers people to speak about issues that affect them.

Hometown Media Awards are sponsored by the Alliance for Community Media (ACM) and honors and promotes community media, and local cable programs that are distributed on Public, Educational and Governmental (PEG) access cable television channels. Awards are presented to creative programs that address community needs, develop diverse community involvement, challenge conventional commercial television formats and move viewers to experience television in a different way.
